2nd Workshop on new bridges for a new knowledge on electrochemical engineering (JE-Electrochemical Engineering) - A WCCE10 Joint Event

There is a need for scientific as well as general discussion in electrochemical technology, in particular within congresses focused on chemical engineering. For this reason, a new type of event has been launched by the WPEE of EFCE: the Workshop on Electrochemical Engineering. It consists of a topical meeting tailored to the aim of the Congresses, fitted into their frame and organized with the support of the national community of electrochemical engineers, in charge of the organization of the general congress. For WCCE10, the 2nd European Workshop of Electrochemical Engineering wants to combine the great impulse of the electrochemical technology in many developing regions and connect it with the tradition of the European community of researchers, of course not excluding researchers from all other regions of the World. This event will be co-organized with the Excellence Network on Environmental and Energy Applications of the Electrochemical Technology. Participants will be researchers and industrialists with interests in electrochemistry or electrochemical engineering. Short research presentations will finish with a round table discussion of strategic topics in electrochemical engineering. In addition, there will be a 'partnering' session to discuss possibilities for collaboration.
